AEE Citation for Gallantry in Action

For gallantry in action at Belleau Woods, France, early in June, 1918, while assisting a wounded comrade to safety. In the performance of this act he was himself wounded.
2 Div Citation for Gallantry in Action The twenty-four men above named, observers and scouts of the 2nd Battalion, 5th Marines, are conspicuous for their bravery in action, never once hesitating to perform their duties under most violent shellfire. The observers established and maintained an important observation post for four days under extremely violent machine-gun and artillery fire. The scouts were ever ready to perform extra duties, evacuating wounded, carrying up ammunition under violent artillery barrages, and acting as guides to the front lines on numerous occasions. This northwest of Chateau-Thierry, June 1st to 30th, 1918.

French Croix de Guerre (Gilt Star)
Acting as liaison agent of the battalion he displayed remarkable courage in getting to the most advanced positions through numerous machine-gun barrages in order to administer first aid to the wounded exposed to machine-gun fire. This at Belleau Wood, June 11, 1918.

French Croix de Guerre (Bronze Star)
Pvt. Hayden displayed great courage when, wounded by shrapnel, he had his wound quickly dressed in order to return to transport some wounded comrades under violent artillery fire.

79 Div Citation for Gallantry in Action

On Nov. 5th, 1918, while advancing under heavy artillery fire, Corporal Hensel found himself surrounded by ten of the enemy, the crews of five machine guns, who captured him. Through his great nerve and shrewdness he held them in conversation telling them that large numbers of his own troops were advancing and that they would soon be captured. He convinced them that this condition existed and was successful in bringing the Germans back into the American lines as prisoners, thereby preventing the use of the hostile machine guns against our troops.

At Montfaucon between September 26 and September 30, 1918, and in the Grande Montagne sector North of Verdun October 28 to November 11, 1918, he repeatedly volunteered to carry messages between company and battalion or regimental and brigade Post of Command. He performed these missions under heavy fire and at times when it was especially hazardous and perilous to venture from cover.

In the St. Die Sector, Vosges, Aug-mand of a section of machine guns, the enemy sent over a heavy barrage putting one of his guns out of action. Without regard to personal safety he assisted in replacing the gun and by his coolness and devotion to duty he set a wonderful example for the rest of the men.

Wounded severely 11/8/18
Distinguished Service Cross
Near Crepion, France, Nov. 7-8, 1918.

While his battalion was conducting a relief, he and 4 members of his platoon were wounded by shell fire.
After he had taken the 4 wounded comrades to a first-aid station, he immediately returned without treatment to himself, despite his severe suffering from 3 body wounds, and remained with his platoon until the completion of the relief.

French Croix de Guerre (Silver Star)
A very brave and energetic noncommissioned officer who, though wounded himself, accompanied four of his wounded men to the first-aid station under a violent fire. He then rejoined his platoon, refusing to have his wound dressed for fear of being sent to the rear.

Distinguished Service Medal

While in command of the 6th Engineers, 3d Division, attached to the British Expeditionary Forces, from Feb. 11 to Apr. 1, 1918, during which time the regiment was engaged in the construction of heavy bridges on the Somme and on fortification and combat duty, because of his high professional ability, his great energy, and devotion to duty he contributed materially to the accomplishments of the forces engaged in those operations.

British Distinguished Service Order (Companion)

This officer took his unit into the line near Villery-Bretonneux as part of Carey's Force. They remained in the line from March 25 to April 1, and the excellence of their work digging and wiring on March 26 and 27, and their gallant bearing in the subsequent fighting was in no small measure due to the example of their commanding officer who never spared himself but seemed to be everywhere at once cheering and encouraging his men.

For great courage and devotion to duty during the operations at La Creche from April 10-21, 1918, and in the subsequent operations in the neighborhood of Bailloul. This officer showed fine initiative and great devotion to duty during this period.
He worked for many hours unceas-ingly under very trying circumstances and by his coolness and cheerful manner he set a fine example of endurance and personal disregard for safety under heavy shell and rifle fire in encouraging the officers and other ranks in and around his post.
He attended to a large number of cases, working for many hours and refusing to be relieved. Many of the cases he dealt with did not belong to his own unit and by his untiring devotion was undoubtedly the means of saving many lives.

10 Inf Brig Citation for Gallantry in Action

On the 14th of October, 1918, near Romagne, France, Corporal Holsey was severely gassed and burned with mustard gas, yet continued forward with his company, remained in command of his squad, and directed its movement in spite of severe pain from the burns on his body. When advised to go to the rear he refused and continued with the company during the entire Meuse-Argonne Offensive, in spite of continued pain caused by his wound. By his unselfishness and devotion to duty he inspired the entire company to further efforts.

tion
Pvt. Hooker, on September 26th, 1918, was sent by his Platoon Leader with a message to the platoon. To accomplish this mission it was necessary for him to pass through the enemy's barrage. This he did, carrying out his mission with absolute courage and disregard for his personal safety.

Wounded severely (twice) 7/31/18
Distinguished Service Cross

He displayed extraordinary heroism, presence of mind, and physical endurance during an enemy raid against his small advance post near Gildwiller, in Alsace, on July 31, 1918. Although seriously wounded from grenades, he and one private from his company counterattacked a greatly superior enemy, personally killing at least one of them with his rifle, preventing any entry by the enemy into his post, and finally reentering our lines after having received a second severe wound.
French Croix de Guerre (Silver Star)
On July 31, 1918, at an attack on his outpost by superior forces, he displayed a remarkable spirit of decision in advancing, although wounded, to the counter attack. He extricated himself by killing single-handed several assailants, and resumed command of his detachment, thus brilliantly contributing to the repulse of the enemy.

Killed in action 8/4/18
Distinguished Service Cross
Near Ville-Savoye, France, Aug. 4, 1918.

With but 15 minutes in which to prepare his battalion for attack, Major Houston on horseback galloped from flank to flank, fully exposed to deadly artillery fire, in order to make the necessary preparations for the advance. After his leading element had started the attack he was killed by an enemy shell.

French Croix de Guerre (Silver Star)
He cooperated with a French battalion in the fighting of July 19 and 20, 1918, and displayed a spirit of comradeship absolutely remarkable, placing at the disposition of the French, the resources of all sorts at his disposal.
